POLL'S

Poll's for particular people! That is the consensus after the big audiences, several thousand people daily, after they have witnessed and enjoyed to their hearts content the varied programs of amusement which are rendered daily and changed twice weekly.

Today it is the "Luck of the Totem," a novel musical comedy with unique settings, unique songs and the weird phrasing and habits of the Arctic circle which appeal. Five people engage in this greatly enjoyed comedy and song spectacle. There are good voices and much brilliant scenery and effects to attract the eye and the ear.

The Latest Pathe news is being shown. This week's installment of national events cover all phases of life and happenings in America and are both interesting and instructive.

Dave Miller in the Animated Pictures has scored another hit and lovers of the new music have an opportunity of impressing deeply in their minds the meaning of the author when he wrote the favorite song now being featured.

The silent-stage devotee sees for the last time that interesting and wholly appealing drama, "The Prince Chap," which in five distinct and separate acts displays the powers of a number of stars in wonderfully scenic beauty and action. There are many tense situations thrill and romance.

The Mystic Hanson trio, are offering exceptional novelty in the mystic world. Besides the wizard magician, two pretty, and sprightly girls add to the general appeal this act has by their vocal and terpsichorean ability.

Charles Rogers & Company, who display for the approbation of the public their latest novelty sketch on "The Movie Craze," incidentally furnish audiences with continued laughter. Their studio comedy is new and a radical departure from the ordinary.

Hayes and Rives are two elite dancers. Their effect is elegant and they offer a novel surprise. Denny and Sykes, at the piano and the footlights have a nifty line of nonsense that reaches the laughter muscles.

The Poll show will be changed tomorrow and the last call for this novel bill is sounded today.

PLAZA.

Yesterday established a new attendance record for the season at the Plaza and there is little doubt but that Will J. Ward and his Five Symphony Girls may justly take the credit although they had a splendid bill to support them.

Mr. Ward and his quintette of charmers have a singing and piano extravaganza into which there has been just enough terpsichorean daintiness blended to make it one of the most highly delightful and uniquely entertaining offerings that has ever held the boards of the popular playhouse. It takes encore after encore at every performance and you should make every effort to see it tonight.

Gold and Seal, a clever pair of steppers who feature some novel roller-skate dances; Stetson and Huber in a singing, talking and dancing skit with plenty of fun interspersed and Will E. Missem and company in a comedy juggling novelty complete the vaudeville.

"Home," a five part Triangle production with Bessie Barriscale, the talented emotional star; Charles Ray, Clara Williams, Louise Gbaum and George Fisher, featured in splendid roles, is the main photo attraction.

"Madcap Ambrose," a Keystone two part farce, causes uproars of laughter.

PARK

With a matinee and evening performance associate players will conclude the successful one year's engagement in Bridgeport, and will tour the principal cities of New England for several weeks, after which she will return to this city and will play a prolonged engagement at a theatre here, which will be named the Cecil Spooner Playhouse.

Admirers of Miss Spooner will await with interest her return. The attendance and sale for "The Little Terror" has been large, while the subscriptions and reservation orders have been coming in strong. Last night's attendance at the Park was a record breaker and "The Little Terror" kept the audience in a merry mood throughout the three acts of the comedy.

Inventor Sues Auto Dealer For Royalties Due on His Patents

Francis H. Brown, of Ridley Park, Pa., who alleges he is the sole inventor of fluid cushion springs, widely used on automobiles, has entered suit against Arnold L. Schavoor of Stamford for royalties said to be due on the control of the patent for a definite period by the defendant. Plaintiff asks an accounting and $12,000 damages in the civil superior court.

Wants Husband To Get Back Property He Gave Former Wife

Nettie R. Schirmer of Darien asks for a divorce with alimony from Frank Schirmer also of Darien. The plaintiff's maiden name was Rittenberg and their marriage took place on October 8, 1908. She alleges desertion on July 21, 1903.

Besides reciting in the complaint filed in the civil superior court this morning that her husband's annual income is in excess of $15,000, she wants an adjudication of the defendant's right in an estate said to have been devised to a former wife with the understanding that upon her death the property would be transferred to him. The complainant states that though the first wife is dead the defendant has as yet taken no action in the probate court to establish his rights to the property and the court is asked to force such action in favor of the plaintiff.

Trade of the port of Boston for the year ending July 31 amounted to $347,32,047.

TALKING MACHINE RECORDS

The Tannhauser Overture, Parts 1 and 2, from Wagner's "Tannhauser," has just been put in record form by Columbia.

The intricacies of this Wagnerian composition have never been interpreted with more masterful skill than by Prince's Symphony Orchestra. No more vivid picture could be painted than the introduction to Part 1, the impressive Pilgrim's Chorus. It would seem that the very instruments themselves reflect the spiritual power that inspired Tannhauser on his journey of penance to Rome.

The very zenith of musical descriptive art is reached in Part 2. The introductory theme vividly portrays the return of the pilgrims, chanting as they march. Then the sombre religious motif is lost in the tempestuous musical battle fought between the stately Pilgrim Chorus and the passionate Venusian motif. The religious theme prevails and all instruments blend their voices in the triumphant hymn that marks the grand finale of the Overture.

Such an inspiring performance by a symphony orchestra is a revelation even to the most sophisticated musical ear.

"Keep a Place Down in Your Heart for Ireland," a late Columbia recording, is an intermingling of American patriotism and Irish loyalty. The advice of an Americanized Irishman to his Irish-American son.

The melody is typically Irish, but quite different in tempo from the usual popular Irish songs. De Los Becker has a wee bit o' brogue in his splendid tenor voice that is admirably adapted to the song.

Here is a brimming measure of good cheer for the record lover. The charming Hawaiian guitar duet played by Helen Louise and Frank Ferera, and recorded by Columbia.

It will interest admirers of South-Pacific melody to know that the Hawaiian guitar is really the ordinary American instrument. Instead of being held upright by the left hand, the guitar is laid flat across the knees. Metal, thimble-like picks are worn on the fingers of the right hand to evoke melody from the strings, while the left hand fingers frets by passing down the strings with a metal bar three inches long and approximately one-quarter of an inch thick. The bar is slid up and down the strings, which produces the singing effect so characteristic of Hawaiian music.

"Manna Kea Medley" is another charming Hawaiian guitar duet played by Helen Louise and Frank Ferera, and recorded by Columbia.

Exports of merchandise from New York for the week ended Aug. 26 totaled $73,106,341.
